DUTCH HARBOR, Unalaska, Sept. 25—(INS)—Slipping out of a stormy sky, unheralded, the Moscow-New York seaplane, 'Land of the Soviets' was moored here today waiting favorable weather to continue its journey.

The departure from Attu, most western of the Aleutian Island group, was unannounced. Buffeted for almost 500 miles by a strong south-easterly gale. The plane surprised the residents of Dutch Harbor as it zoomed out of laden clouds and came to rest in the harbor. The gray, bi-motored cabin-type monoplane was seemingly in good condition as were the crew members.

Charge of Unfair Dry Enforcement In Washington is Stirring Congress

Investigation of Liquor Situation May Result From Quarrel of Senators.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—(INS)—The sensational charges of Senator Robert B. Howell (R) of Nebraska, that prohibition is being enforced here against the "little fellow" but not against the rich, may result in a congressional inquiry into the liquor situation in the national capital, it appeared today

The high spot in Howell's charges as the reading of a report by a former dry agent, alleging that prohibition officials "protected" a string of hotels owned by Wardman. The agent, in another report, charged that liquor was sold and drunk openly in the fashionable Carleton club just three blocks from the White House

CHARGES "UNFAIRNESS"

Howell read the agent's reports—written by H. N Douthitt, a prominent local figure—in response to President Hoover's demand for "days and dates" when the dry law was not enforced in Washington.

Howell charged President Hoover with being "unfair" in asking for specific information about liquor law violations. The senator added that the government's files in the department of justice ,the district attorney's office and the prohibition commissioner's office were filled with records of violations He declared he could give much more specific information if allowed access to these files.

Senator Brookhart (R) of Iowa, added to the merriment by charging that senators and senators-elect attended a banquet here three years ago at which silvery whisky flasks were handed around as favors. He didn't say so but he intimated there was something in the flasks. When Brookhart added that Senator Smoot (R) of Utah, attended the same banquet, the latter leaped to his feet with a declaration that he hadn't obtained a flask

ATTACKS DIPLOMATS

"No," replied Brookhart 'I know that because the senator told me so at the time'

Howell demanded that the dry law be enforced in the national capital against the rich as well as poor, and against the diplomats as well as against citizens He particularly condemned the practice of the government in allowing diplomats to bring liquor into the country. He demanded that all these shipments be seized. He even charged that citizens were allowed to drink liquor openly at the Wardman Park hotel, another Wardman property, because diplomats were frequent visitors.

DRY REIGN IS FORCING BEER COST UPWARD

Federal Prohibition Commissioner Says Dry Law Effect Showing In Prices.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Sept. 25—(INS)—Rising beer prices in Chicago and other large cities were cited by Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran as proof of the effectiveness of prohibition enforcement in an optimistic review of the entire prohibition situation before the 55th annual convention of the National W. C. T. U. here today.

"Even illicit alley beer has increased in price from $20 to $55 and $60 a barrel in the city of Chicago as the result of the enforcement of prohibition." Doran told the 3,000 W. C. T. U. delegates.

Doran ascribed the steady improvement in the prohibition situation to the following causes:

CAUSES LISTED

The reduction of liquor smuggling to one sixth of what it was your years ago.

The virtual stopping of the diversion of industrial alcohol into bootleg channels, and quantitative control over the alcohol.

The tightening of regulations governing liquor permits.

The intensive training of prohibition agents and workers.

Nearly 80,000 arrests in one year by dry agents.

And peering into the future, Doran predicted that "it seems certain to me that greater effectness in enforcing prohibition will come with time."

DRY AGENT SHOT

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Sept. 25—(INS)—Captain Charles Stevens San Antonio prohibition agent, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded today when he and two companions were ambushed on a highway several miles from here.

Advertisers Are Live Wires

The newspaper readers have their opinions of merchants who advertise. Here's the idea of one as expressed in a letter to The Herald.

"Why It Pays to Advertise"

"It is the live wire that keeps his name and merchandise before the public. When the people are ready to buy any article they will go to the merchant whose advertisement they have seen

"Some merchants do not believe in advertising as they seem to think it is an extravagance of course those merchants do not get very far If they would advertise their products in a little while their business would increase

'I have found with advertised products that they are more satisfactory than others Especially with automobiles They give you more service than what they are advertised to do I think that is a good thing, because you will be more than satisfied When you are ready for a new car you will buy from the dealer you first bought of as you can depend on the dealer and the car."

AUTO DRIVERS GET WARNING

Motorists Must Stop For School Busses or Expect Term in County Jail.

A warning from the sheriff's office to all autoists in Pickaway-so regarding speed limit and driving in the city and county school zones was given Wednesday by Deputy Miller Fissell. A national drive is now being conducted in order to avoid all accidents. A new law enacted by the Ohio General Assembly has gone into effect regarding autoists in school zones. This law states that anyone not stopping while approaching a county school bus or in city school safety zones can be fined from $10 to $100 and imprisoned for 30 days in the county jail

Anyone in Pickaway-co violating these rules are subject to punishment and can expect an affidavit filed against them. An example of a hit-skip driver is that of the man who killed the two Dispatch newsies Sunday. All school busses in the county have or are now lettering "SCHOOL BUS" on the front and rear of their autos, as as to let the public at large know when to stop. Officers are continually on the highway, trying to enforce this law and violators of the rule can look for the worse. Recently on an auto from Illinois the following banner was seen— "We Love Our Children, Stop for the School Busses."

Residents of Southern Cities Take Precautions as Storm Nears East Coast.

BULLETIN

FORT LAUDERDALE, FLA., Sept. 25—(INS)— Children were sent home from the schools and some were taken by their mothers to nearby towns to await the passing of the tropical storm which is scheduled to strike portions of Florida late today.

Residents in this area were taking down or fastening their awnings, locking their shutters and boarding up their homes and stores to protect the storm's fury.

JUPITER, FLA., Sept. 25—(INS) — Radio reports received here shortly before 10 a. m., from Nassau, Bahama Islands, said the barometer there had dropped 31 points during the night. The last report from there said the wind was blowing at a velocity of 42 miles per hour.

The last barometer reading at Nassau was 29.54.

MIAMI, FLA., Sept. 25—(INS)—The spectre of another hurricane hovered over the Florida East Coast today, and terror was cast into the hearts of residents to whose memory the 1926 catastrophe is still vivid.

Latest weather bureau reports indicated the storm, should it continue its present course all the way will strike in or near Cape Canaveral, just above Jupiter, Fla.

Residents of the peninsular area across from the first strike of the storm spent an uncomfortable night, with the doors and windows of their homes nailed down.

TAKE PRECAUTION

Warned sufficiently of the approach of the hurricane, towns in the danger zones were making extraordinary precautions for safety. At strategic points supplies of food, kerosene, clothing and medicinal supplies were held in readiness.

The storm was last reported in latitude 27, longitude 76, moving in a northwestly direction at a rate of ten miles an hour. the weather bureau said the storm was likely of near hurricane proportion at the center.

The weather bureau officials believed the storm, continuing its present path, might strike the east Florida coast between West Palm Beach and Daytona Beach.

The storm, at its present rate, is not expected to touch the Florida coast until late in the afternoon. Meantime only slight indications of the tropical disturbance were reported by Florida cities. Muggy weather and light winds prevailed in a number of places.

WINDOWS BOARDED

Miami, having weathered the great hurricane of 1926 and knowing how to meet these blows, calmly went about its job of removing its multi-hued awnings or making them fast. Buildings along Flagler-st and in the business district with large show windows were boarded up. The organization to meet the 25 to 38 mile gale expected to hit here as a by-product of the main storm, formed two years ago, went about its work with expedition and dispatch. American legion posts and service clubs called out their relief workers to be ready in such an emergency as sent scores of workers to Palm Beach last fall.

AUTO DRIVERS GET WARNING

Motorists Must Stop For School Busses or Expect Term in County Jail.

A warning from the sheriff's office to all autoists in Pickaway-so regarding speed limit and driving in the city and county school zones was given Wednesday by Deputy Miller Fissell. A national drive is now being conducted in order to avoid all accidents. A new law enacted by the Ohio General Assembly has gone into effect regarding autoists in school zones. This law states that anyone not stopping while approaching a county school bus or in city school safety zones can be fined from $10 to $100 and imprisoned for 30 days in the county jail.

Anyone in Pickaway-co violating these rules are subject to punishment and can expect an affidavit filed against them. An example of a hit-skip driver is that of the man who killed the two Dispatch newsies Sunday. All school busses in the county have or are now lettering "SCHOOL BUS" on the front and rear of their autos, as as to let the public at large know when to stop. Officers are continually on the highway, trying to enforce this law and violators of the rule can look for the worse. Recently on an auto from Illinois the following banner was seen— "We Love Our Children, Stop for the School Busses."

CHURCH WILL BE DEDICATED

Services Opening New Structure at Pherson Will Be Held On Oct. 27.

The Methodist Episcopal church at Pherson, which was destroyed by fire May 8, has been rebuilt and will soon be ready for service. The rededication was planned for Sunday, Sept. 29, but the date for the reopening has been changed to Sunday, Oct. 27. This postponement was necessary because some of the inside work is not complete.

A splendid program has been planned for this important day in the history of the little Pherson church, with its active and loyal congregation. There will be three services during the day, with outstanding speakers from among the district superintendents. These will include Dr. J. W. Blair, Dr. E. J. Stafford and Dr John C. Arbuckle. The services will convene at 9:30 a. m., and 2 and 7:30 p. m.

Special music will be a feature of the rededication services, and at noon the women of the church will serve a chicken dinner in the basement of the church. Everyone is invited to attend any or all of these services and to enjoy the sociable meal at noon.

BRIBE OFFERS FAIL TO WORK

Former Manager of Columbus Auto Club Fined For Possession of Liquor.

When Deputy Sheriffs John Ward, Jr., and Miller Fissell finally succeeding in arousing W. S. Bird, former manager of the Columbus Automobile club, sufficiently to transfer him to their auto at 11 p. m. Tuesday, he failed to free himself of arrest by allegedly offering bribes to the two officers.

Bird, who is a clerk in the adjutant general's office at Columbus and a captain on the staff of Major General Benson Hough of the Ohio National Guard, was found "dead to the world" in his Reo sedan a mile from Darbyville on the South Bloomfield-rd.

A bottle containing whiskey was also found and he was brought to the county jail despite his efforts to "buy off" the officers.

When arraigned before Probate Judge E. A. Brown Wednesday morning, Bird pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing liquor and asked for leniency, calling attention to his overseas service in the World war and to the fact that the Columbus Automobile club, of which he was manager until last August, gave an annual picnic for the children of Pickaway-co Children's Home.

Judge Brown fined him $100 and costs, which Bird is making arrangements to pay.

WINDOWS ARE BOARDED AND DOORS NAILED

Residents of Southern Cities Take Precautions as Storm Nears East Coast.

BULLETIN

F O R T LAUDERDALE, FLA., Sept. 25—(INS)— Children were sent home from the schools and some were taken by their mothers to nearby towns to await the passing of the tropical storm which is scheduled to strike portions of Florida late today.

Residents in this area were taking down or fastening their awnings, locking their shutters and boarding up their homes and stores to thwart the storm's fury.

JUPITER, FLA., Sept. 25—(INS) — Radio reports received here shortly before 10 a. m., from Nassau, Bahama Islands. said the barometer there had dropped 21 points during the night. The last report from there said the wind was blowing at a velocity of 42 miles per hour.

The last barometer reading at Nassau was 29.54.

MIAMI, FLA., Sept. 25—(INS) —The spectre of another hurricane hovered over the Florida East Coast today, and terror was sent into the hearts of residents in whose memory the 1928 catistrophe is still vivid.

Latest weather bureau reports indicated the storm, should it continue its present course all the way will strike in or near Cape Canaveral, just above Jupiter, Fla.

Residents of the potential storm area arose tremulously with the first streak of dawn today, most of them spent an uncomfortable night,, with the doors and windows of their homes nailed down.

TAKE PRECAUTION

Warned sufficiently of the approach of the hurricane, towns in the danger zones were making extraordinary precautions for safety. At strategic points supplies of food, kerosene, clothing and medicinal supplies were held in readiness.

The storm was last reported in latitude 27, longitude 76, moving in a northwestly direction at a rate of ten miles an hour. the weather bureau said the storm was likely of near hurricane proportion at the center.

The weather bureau officials believed the storm, continuing its present path, might strike the east Florida coast between West Palm Beach and Daytona Beach.

The storm, at its present rate, is not expected to touch the Florida coast until late in the afternoon. Meantime only slight indications of the tropical disturbance were reported by Florida cities. Muggy weather and light winds prevailed in a number of places.

WINDOWS BOARDED

Miami, having weathered the great hurricane of 1926 and knowing how to meet these blows, calmly went about its job of removing its multi-hued awnings or making them fast. Buildings along Flagler-st and in the business district with large show windows were boarded up. The organization to meet the 25 to 38 mile gale expected to hit here as a by-product of the main storm, formed two years ago, went about its work with expedition and dispatch. American legion posts and service clubs called out their relief workers to be ready in such an emergency as sent scores of workers to Palm Beach last fall.

TIGERS WILL MEET WALNUT NEXT FRIDAY

Local Grid Season Will Be Opened With Game Between Friendly Rivals

Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Circleville Tigers will tangle with the Walnut high school eleven. This game should be very interesting as Walnut and Circleville have battled on the gridiron many seasons and a friendly rivalry has sprung up.

Although handicapped by the absence of Russell and Lutz through withdrawal from the squad and Hundley through ineligibility and the possibility of Hill being absent on account of an injured shoulder, the Roundtown crew will be out to revenge the defeat handed them by Marysville last week.

Coach Griffith of Walnut states that although he has a very light team, he expects a close, hard fought game.

Coach Guthrie also believes that the game will be close but that the Tigers will come out the winners.

Many of the downtown rooters state that the Circleville Tigers have not the team that they had last year. The boys are going to try to prove Friday that they have a better team. Last year the Tigers won from Walnut 13-0 This year's score is yet to be seen

The Tiger's line will outweigh the Walnut line by a great margin

Coach Guthrie's boys are ready to play football this Friday having had their first game and have been broken in to the grind. At Marysville the Tigers lost due to a green team. This week the team will endeavor to lower the percentage of their offside penalties.

This week the boys at C H. S. as well as W. H. S. have been practicing hard. Hard tackles and blocks have both been given and received.

Tuesday night Gaines Hill received minor injuries to his shoulder which may cause his absence from the team Friday.

Coach Guthrie now has season tickets on sale at $1.00.

BOSTON AGAIN IN SPOTLIGHT

"Strange Interlude" Joins Dunton's Book Among Forbidden Things.

The banning of "Wild Asses," written by James G. Dunton in Boston several months ago, caused quite a few comments at the time and also some very unfavorable remarks from other authors and editors. One consolation that Jim had, however, was the fact that "Elmer Gantry," one of the widest read books on the market, had also been banned there Now comes the capping of the climax with the banning of Eugene O'Neil's play "The Strange Interlude" which was one of the most successful plays that showed at the Hartman theatre in Columbus last season.

This act has put Boston in the limelight again and editorials have appeared in practically every large newspaper in the United States ridiculing it.

J. Brooks Atkinson in the New York Times calls it "Sheer Ignorance;" Christopher Morley, columnist, styles it "Absurd and Outrageous," and Percy Hammond in The Herald Tribune says that the mayor of Boston has deprived his citizens of an entertainment whose moral affects are no more harmful than Ringling Bros circus.

George Jean Nathan in the American Mercury and Judge says "Another act in the most idiotic clown show in America." The Boston Traveler says: "Boston is rapidly becoming a city where it is criminal to deny that there is a Santa Claus or that storks bring babies.

James is now on the Melrose Free Press, of Melrose, Mass, and in addition is a contributor to the Dance Magazine, the current issue of which contains the second installment of a series of articles on Ballet History which is being featured by the magazine The series is entitled "The Ballet Record."

Oddities in Language

A great many American Indian languages do not use the sound of "B." The famous Aztec language of Mexico does not have it and the majority of North American Indians are unable to pronounce the sound However, some Indian languages have the "B" — for example the Jamez tongue of New Mexico has a perfect "B," and in California the Pomo Indians, the most expert basket makers in the world have it. A good example of a proper name beginning with "B" is Bagil, a woman heroine in Pomo mythology about whom stories are told Her name is pronounced Bah-geel

Three of Best Grid Outfits In Country To Battle Buckeye Aggregations.

CLEVELAND, Sept 25— (INS) —Three of the best football teams in the country will provide the opposition for three Ohio teams when the 1929 grid campaign officially gets under way with 33 Ohio college teams on the field

In the center of the spotlight is Denison university, which sends its light and inexperienced team to Annapolis, where it tangles with the strong navy Eleven. The navy began its football practice earlier than any other team in the country this year, and is in great shape to tackle any team. The middies should make short work of the Buckeye conference team.

PLAYS MICHIGAN

Mount Union, which was among the leaders of the Ohio conference last year, travels to Ann Arbor where it engages the varsity Wolverine team as one-half of a double header. The Michigan Reserves play Albion in the other game.

The third large game, which shares the spotlight with the best game of the day, will see Ohio Northern and Washington and Jefferson on the field at Washington, Pa. The Polar Bears are fresh from a victory over Buffton last week and will give the W. and J Presidents a real fight.

Other Ohio college teams have gone out of the state for smaller foes. Dayton stays in its own backyard and gets a visit from Indiana Central Normal college. Heidleberg, winner of the Ohio conference race last season, plays Olviet at Tiffin; Miami tangles with Earlham of West Virginia; John Carroll plays Valparaiso from Indiana; St. Xavier meets the strong Transylvania team from Lexington, Ky, on its ne stadium field in Cincinnati, and Ohio university tackles Indiana at Bloomington.

BUCKEYES FAVORED

In these last contests, the Buckeye entries are favored to win over their visitors from other states, with the exception of the John Carroll-Valparaiso game The Irish have been in intensive training since Sept. 2, and have a fast team but word from the Hoosier camp boasts of a large heavy team which is expected to wear down the blue streaks The Ohio-Indiana game is a toss-up

During this whole time I tried one medicine after another from drug stores and doctors and still the pains grew worse. As a last resort I tried Spinago and am happy to say that two bottles entirely freed me of all sign of rheumatism. It is truly a wonderful medicine and I will be everlastingly grateful for the service it has rendered me.

BOSTON AGAIN IN SPOTLIGHT

"Strange Interlude" Joins Dunton's Book Among Forbidden Things.

The banning of "Wild Asses," written by James G. Dunton in Boston several months ago, caused quite a few comments at the time and also some very unfavorable remarks from other authors and editors. One consolation that Jim had, however, was the fact that "Elmer Gantry," one of the widest read books on the market, had also been banned there. Now comes the capping of the climax with the banning of Eugene O'Neil's play. "The Strange Interlude" which was one of the most successful plays that showed at the Hartman theatre in Columbus last season.

This act has put Boston in the limelight again and editorials have appeared in practically every large newspaper in the United States ridiculing it.

J. Brooks Atkinson in the New York Times calls it "Sheer Ignorance;" Christopher Morley, columnist, styles it "Absurd and Outrageous;" and Percy Hammond in The Herald Tribune says that the mayor of Boston has deprived his citizens of an entertainment whose moral affects are no more harmful than Ringling Bros circus.

George Jean Nathan in the American Mercury and Judge says. "Another act in the most idiotic clown show in America." The Boston Traveler says: "Boston is rapidly becoming a city where it is criminal to deny that there is a Santa Claus or that storks bring babies.

James is now on the Melrose Free Press, of Melrose, Mass., and in addition is a contributor to the Dance Magazine, the current issue of which contains the second installment of a series of articles on Ballet History which is being featured by the magazine. The series is entitled "The Ballet Record."

Small Port Pre-Eminent

Southampton is a comparatively small seaport, with only four miles of quay, compared with thirty miles in London and thirty-seven miles in Liverpool; yet it is the premier passenger port of Britain.

Oddities in Language

A great many American Indian languages do not use the sound of "B." The famous Aztec language of Mexico does not have it and the majority of North American Indians are unable to pronounce the sound. However, some Indian languages have the "B" — for example, the Jamez tongue of New Mexico has a perfect "B," and in California the Pomo Indians, the most expert basket makers in the world, have it. A good example of a proper name beginning with "B" is Bagil, a woman heroine in Pomo mythology, about whom stories are told. Her name is pronounced Bah-geel.

GRAND WILL HAVE BOXING

Fast Action Card Is Arranged For Next Wednesday At Local Theater.

Next Wednesday night, Oct. 2, four all-star, three round amateur bouts will be staged at the Grand opera house of this city. This entertainment, which will be presented to the public between the first and second regular shows, will inaugurate the first of a series of amateur bouts to be held at the Grand opera house every Wednesday night.

In the feature event of the evening, Lundy Ferguson, local high school sensation who recently pounched his way to a hard earned decision over rugged Al Van Flossen of this city, will meet a tartar in Georgia Reed of Yellowbud. Reed has yet to lose a decision. These boys will battle for amateur featherweight championship of the county at 126 pounds.

Another bang-up bout will bring together Mexican Kid of Cincinnati and Kid Brown of Chillicothe at 126 pounds. These boys are evenly matched and real crowd pleasures. They have met on three different occasions. Twice they battled to a draw and once Mexican Kid received the nod.

In the two remaining bouts Roy McQuade boxes Art Culp at 135 pounds and Merle Davis will tangle with Battling Beck at 118 pounds.

The boxing program will accompany an exceptionally good picture in "Domestic Meddlers," featuring Claire Windsor, Lawrence Gray, and Roy Dorey in an unusual story of a thrilling amusing martial triangle. To top it all off a talkie comedy and news reel will be on tap.

Three of Best Grid Outfits In Country To Battle Buckeye Aggregations.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25— (INS) —Three of the best football teams in the country will provide the opposition for three Ohio teams when the 1929 grid campaign officially gets under way with 33 Ohio college teams on the field.

In the center of the spotlight is Denison university, which sends its light and inexperienced team to Annapolis, where it tangles with the strong navy Eleven. The navy began its football practice earlier than any other team in the country this year, and is in great shape to tackle any team. The middies should make short work of the Buckeye conference team.

PLAYS MICHIGAN

Mount Union, which was among the leaders of the Ohio conference last year, travels to Ann Arbor where it engages the varsity Wolverine team as one-half of a double header. The Michigan Reserves play Albion in the other game.

The third large game, which shares the spotlight with the best game of the day, will see Ohio Northern and Washington and Jefferson on the football at Washington, Pa. The Polar Bears are fresh from a victory over Buffton last week and will give the W. and J. Presidents a real fight.

Other Ohio college teams have gone out of the state for smaller foes. Dayton stays in its own backyard and gets a visit from Indiana Central Normal college. Heidleberg, winner of the Ohio conference race last season, plays Olviet at Tiffin; Miami tangles with Earlham of West Virginia; John Carroll plays Valparaiso from Indiana; St. Xavier meets the strong Transylvania team from Lexington, Ky., on its ne stadium field in Cincinnati, and Ohio university tackles Indiana at Bloomington.

BUCKEYES FAVORED

In these last contests, the Buckeye entries are favored to win over their visitors from other states, with the exception of the John Carroll-Valparaiso game. The Irish have been in intensive training since Sept. 2, and have a fast team but word from the Hoosier camp boasts of a large heavy team which is expected to wear down the blue streaks. The Ohio-Indiana game is a toss-up.

Other games on Saturday's menu are:

Ashland vs Defiance at Ashland.

Case vs Findlay at Cleveland.

Oberlin vs Kent at Oberlin.

Ohio Wesleyan vs. Marietta at Delaware.

Toledo vs. Akron at Toledo.

Western Reserve vs. Kenyon at Cleveland.

Wittenberg vs. Bluffton at Springfield.

Wooster vs. Otterbein at Wooster.

Muskingum vs. Capital at New Concord.

Wilmington vs. Antioch at Wilmington.

Cincinnati vs. Cedarville at Cincinnati.

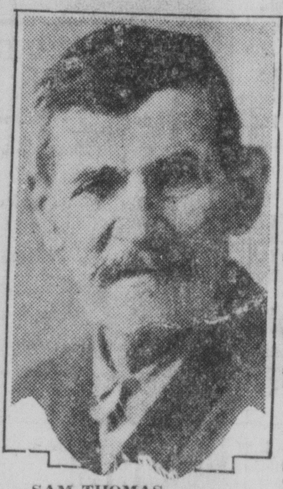
SPINAGO The Tonic That Contains SPINACH

FOR RHEUMATISM

"It Has No Equal," says Sam Thomas, 502 E. Maund St.



SAM THOMAS

For the past five years I suffered terribly from rheumatism. Sharp pains kept me in misery most of the time and prevented my getting about. During this whole time I tried one medicine after another from drug stores and doctors and still the pains grew worse. As a last resort I tried Spinago and am happy to say that two bottles entirely freed me of all sign of rheumatism. It is truly a wonderful medicine and I will be everlastingly grateful for the service it has rendered me.

MR. PAUL ERBE.

"I was employed in a packing house and due to the damp condition, my health finally became affected by neuritis," said Mr. Paul Erbe, 777 South Fifth street, Columbus, Ohio. "Then my stomach became disordered and I could not eat anything without suffering afterward. But my troubles did not end there for my kidneys were very irregular.

"For a long time I had heard about Konjola and I finally decided to give it a trial. Day by day I noticed a wonderful change over my system. Now the neuritis pains have disappeared and my stomach has been regulated so that I can eat whatever I want without suffering afterward. Kidney trouble has been banished and my nerves have been calmed. Konjola is certainly a wonderful medicine and I praise it highly."

DOOMED

A storm of public opinion now brewing may sweep the unsightly billboard or advertising sign from the roadside of main thoroughfares in this country. Up to this time they have been multiplying in numbers, but there are indications that the public is soon to register a protest that will go far to abolition of these eyesores and vision breakers.

The roadside signboard has a certain advertising value and the public neither envies the advertiser for his profit from it nor does it desire to deprive the advertiser of any business advantage, but the highways are primarily for the benefit and pleasure of the people and the advertising sign detracts from those benefits and pleasures.

Motorists find the poster-board obnoxious for the three reasons that it mars the landscape, obstructs the view of the scenery and creates a traffic hazard by interference with the vision of the driver. All are sufficiently valid reasons why the advertising sign should be prohibited along main highways.

In the early days of the automobile the roadside poster-board was limited to circus posters on barn broadsides and motorists never dreamed of them as a future problem of highway administration. Public opinion then could not have been molded against the signboard. Today it is molding itself and may strike anytime.

When the advertiser finds that his signboards are distasteful to the public he will not wait, if he is wise, until the passage of legislation before he removes them.

IT IS FALL

Lodges are getting their winter's activities under way. Young folks are wooing Terpischore again. There is a smell of camphor in many homes as mah jongg sets are being opened up. New loud speakers are being installed for the radio. Study circles are resuming. There is hot competition around the reading lamp for possession of the home town paper. Bridge is still played. There is some demand for cornpoppers. The ice man looks a little glum but the electric light meter reader wears a smile like a split watermelon as he sets down the figures.

It has been a wonderfully fine summer with more than usual opportunities for outdoor enjoyments, because of the unbroken sunshine which continuel for so long. But it will be fine to have the fall rains, too, and later the nip of frost and the sheen of snow. Just as one of the fine things about going away from home is to come back there, so one of the fine things about a prolonged summer is that finally we come to its end and to normal change. Seasons lend variety and prevent monotony. And each of them in Circleville is enjoyable.

Ancient Bathing

The Greeks, in their phenomenal mental growth as well as their far-famed physical beauty, were the first to make the custom of bathing a general one. Afterward the Romans followed suit and the Roman baths and what they represented came to be one of the wonders of the world.

Old System of Timing Still in Use in Egypt

Before the advent of the modern clock, many towns and cities told the time to their people by firing a gun at noon. Rome was such a place, and kept to the daily firing of her veterna noon-gun on the Janiculum hill, which had been done so far back as human memory could go until a year or so ago.

Then she decided to replace this ancient form of time signaling by the most ultramodern system available. A master electric clock was installed in the city observatory, which controlled 300 other electric clocks placed in different quarters of the Eternal city on the Tiber. The 538,000 Romans are therefore exceptionally well catered for as regards the time.

What an amazing contrast is such a method as this to the manner in which parts of Egypt to this very day tell the time. There some of the natives still employ ancient shadow clocks. These consist of wooden boards with little "goal posts" in the middle of them, which measure by the shadows they throw the length of jobs which have to be performed by oxen or laborers.

These "clocks" have been in use for telling time for 4,000 years.

Eye Strain Responsible for Much Bad Temper

Physical exhaustion entirely disproportionate to the amount of energy expended is often caused by eye strain, said Dr. B. Franklin Royer, medical director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. In many cases, Doctor Royer said, loss of temper could be traced to defective vision.

"Some of us are fooling ourselves when we do not connect serious bodily fatigue and irritability toward the end of the day, and still greater fatigue and irritability toward the end of the week, with the eye that has actually shown no pain during all that period. Many a worker having just such daily and weekly manifestations of increasing fatigue may have his symptoms disappear by wisely applying present-day medical knowledge of the cause, have the fault corrected, and still keep the same job and the same kind of work, with the fatigue and discomfort rapidly disappearing."

Forged Art on Show

Some of the specimens of forged pieces of "ancient art" are so clever that they are of marvelous interest, although they are known to be spurious. The characteristics of old stone carvings, for instance, have been so minutely reproduced that it is often difficult to detect the fraud. As a matter of fact, there is hardly a museum in the world which, at some time, has not had one of these "fakes" in its collection. Ultimately, however, the imposition is revealed and the offending piece removed. The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has a special department devoted to these forged antiques and they are regarded by experts as quite as interesting as the genuine, but in a different way.

Napoleon's "Pick-Me-Up"

Napoleon, in addition to other trifling feats, was the inventor of the cocktail. Although the most frugal of eaters and drinkers, allowing only eight minutes to lunch and 12 to dinner, he was assisted, it seems, in his "miracles of endurance and activity," by "a mixture of different alcoholic spirits, of which he himself controlled the dosage." So testify Bourienne, Fouche and the valet Constant Wainj, who served him from 1801 till 1814; while Marchand, who succeeded Wainj and accompanied his master to St. Helena, left among his papers the recipe of the ex-emperor's favorite pick-me-up.

Snake With Ears

Another story of a snake with ears comes from the Bushveld. Mr. S. Voges writes to say that he read the report in the Johannesburg Sunday Times of a "snake with ears" being seen in a vlei at Rooiberg, and, he adds, that he believes this tale to be true. "My mother often tells us how, when she was a child, a snake which was found to have two ears was killed in a fig tree," he writes. "As the snake was so strange, the neighbors were called to see it, so that people round about could come and see it as well. I can assure you that this story is true."

Blue Blood And Red

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Eddie Regan, once a member of a New York gang, has escaped to Virginia, where he meets Marian Thorndike. Bernice Veressi, "gang girl," who is in love with Eddie, is forgotten in Eddie's dreams of Marian. Penfield Paradine, last member of an aristocratic Southern family, whom Eddie befriends, dies and leaves Eddie all his possessions. Eddie declares his love to Marian, but she discourages him. She is thrown from her horse, and Tom Freeman, searching for her, finds her in Eddie's house, where she has gone for help. He takes her home, and the next day Marian sends a note of thanks to Eddie for taking care of her. He goes to call on her, and the door is opened by her father.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVII.

"THIS one," she said, picking up a volume, "I think is the best thing I have read this year.'

How different she was from any other girl on earth She lived in a world of books and finer things of life than his own kind of girls did. There were taste and discrimination and definite choosing between fine things and gross things that implied the highest development of intelligence and good breeding. And the doors of understanding, he realized, were locked against him. But Marian held the key and, if she so desired, could reveal to him hidden treasures beyond the grasp of his present imagination. He marveled at the wonder of it and gasped. He could hardly believe that a few nights before she had been in his arms, and that their lips had clung warmly together.

Despite his effort to keep his mind off those past moments of delight he was unable to stop reviewing the miraculous episode that had occurred. He looked at her lips now and could not help yearning for them again. His delight in looking at her was unbounded; she was not made of the same common clay as other girls.

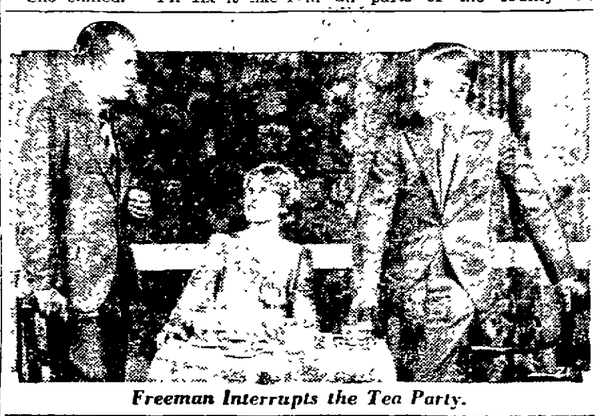
But even as he talked with her and secretly craved a repetition of past delight he knew that she was as far away as ever—that he would not have the chance under any conceivable circumstances to strive for those magic lips again. She was simply beyond him and he was amazed at the effrontery of his dream—at his own daring in thinking he might ever bring the shine of love into those exquisite blue eyes.

On the other hand, it was not within his power to know how warm a flame his masculine gaze generated in Marian Thorndike. With her, the art of covering emotion was an instinct bred of upbringing and tradition. True, she was modern in an intelligent sense, but she was not the kind to reveal her innermost feelings. But she was in a greater degree sensitive, and for that reason more than any other, perhaps, she had cultivated an exterior calmness that was rarely shaken.

A negro woman brought them tea and small cakes on a silver tray; a low maple table was placed between them and Marian served him with cool, slender fingers [illegible] "Do you take cream in your tea?"

"Anyway you fix it will be great."

She smiled. "I'll fix it like I do my own."



Freeman Interrupts the Tea Party.

He could have blessed her for that. She was so pleasant to him that he resolved to find out the truth about her father's feelings toward him. If he had been mistaken about the old man's attitude it would be a needless burden to carry the mistake around in his own mind.

"I wonder if I could get the lowdown from you on something that's worrying me a little?" he asked. "You remember how your father felt against Mr. Paradine?"

She nodded. "Yes, I remember."

"Well, I've been wondering if maybe he didn't still hold hard feelings against anything and everything connected with Mr. Paradine. I came into this county a stranger not long ago and he took me up as he would his own child and left all to me just as though I was his own. Of course, the property isn't so valuable, but the principle of the thing is the way I came to it. I wonder if your father didn't kinda link me up in his mind with Mr. Paradine and figure that I inherited the grudge between them along with the rest of the stuff. Maybe he has said something to you about it."

Marian didn't answer at once. She was absorbed in trying to realize that behind his manner of [illegible] so different from her own [illegible] had a mind and a nature, however uncultivated, that was strongly akin to her own idea of how a man should properly talk and feel.

"My father hasn't said anything to me about it," she said, slowly. "But I know how his mind works I am afraid he does hold a prejudice against you. When he learned of my accident he was not pleased. You know my father is an old-fashioned Southerner and we are living in an isolated, provincial community. We don't know a great deal about the outside world and you have no idea how likes and dislikes grow here in the backwoods. It just happens that in all parts of the county the people make a fetish of pride—perhaps pride and family pride. None of us have much money so we have to have something that seems important. We call it pride but I think for the most part it is utter silliness."

"I think I know what you mean," Eddie said. "They take to pride a good deal like the average people take to toothache."

She did not smile at this sally.

"I'm sorry my father does feel so bitterly against everything connected with Penfield Paradine. The feud started years ago—before I was born. I don't know what they quarreled about and probably father doesn't either. If they had been young men they would have beaten each other and fought it out with pistols; so you see, it isn't likely that my father is going to shout with joy at the mention of your name."

The servant came in the room.

"Mr. Tom Freeman is callin'," she said

A slight flame came to Marian's face and Eddie, unhappily, imagined it was a signal of pleasure.

Tom Freeman came into the room and Eddie felt that his thrillingly pleasant afternoon with Marian was ended. As Marian rose to greet Tom, Eddie got up also. For him, he had the barest nod of his head and a muttered "Hello."

WEIRD DRAMA IS THRILLING

Every audience will love to join the great detective Nayland Smith in his mad, adventurous chase of that wily, oriental character, "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," taken from the pages of Sax Rohmer's world-famous book and made to live now on the talking screen at the Met theatre for four days.

Gripping, awful mystery—eerie footsteps in the dead of night—an unseen hand spreading terror and destruction—a beautiful girl hypnotized to work the will of a cruel maniac—and love dominating, controlling, triumphing in the mystic maze of a revengeful career.

"The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu" is one of the greatest mystery stories ever written and it is one of the greatest moving pictures ever made. In dialog and swift action, the strange, crafty villain, who thrilled millions in Sax Rohmer's books, comes to life, spreads out before us on the screen, inspires us with a nameless terror, spurs us on to his capture and leaves us with a thankful feeling of relief when, captured at last, he clears the way for true love.

NOVARRO'S VOICE CHARMS

Ramon Novarro's voice, destined for Grand Opera, in which he is scheduled to make his debut in Berlin this summer, charmed natives in the South Seas, while the star was in the tropics to film his latest starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "The Pagan," a vivid drama which comes to the Clifton a theater Wednesday as a sound synchronized film with singing sequences.

On his arrival, Novarro, W. S. Van Dyke, the director, Renee Adoree and the rest of the cast, were guests of honor at a native feast. In return, Novarro, as a courtesy, sang several opera aires and some Mexican folksongs for the delightful natives.

The new picture is based on John Russell's vivid novel of the South Seas. Novarro plays a young island chief, torn between the loves of a white charmer, played by Miss Adoree, and a native girl, a role entrusted to Dorothy Janis. Donald Crisp plays the "heavy" role, a cruel itinerant white trader, who tries to separate Novarro and his native sweetheart.

Novarro gives several renditions of "Pagen Love Song," the theme song of the production, being the first time his voice has been heard on the vocal screen.

BLACKMAILING PLOT

Lina Basquette and Reed Howes are starred at the Grand theater Wednesday and Thursday in a talking picture, "Come Across," the sentational drama of a beautiful society girl who lived through the depths of the underworld and the machinations of a gigantic blackmailing plot to reach the heights of true romance. A Vitaphone act and news reel are also on the program.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, first lady of the land, will entertain Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter during their visit in Washington. Since news of the British statesman's trip to this country has been confirmed, Washington society is fearful that the question of seating will again come up as it is probable that Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis will demand that she outrank Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the British Ambassador, who will be hostess to the MacDonalds.

DOOMED

A storm of public opinion now brewing may sweep the unsightly billboard or advertising sign from the roadside of main thoroughfares in this country. Up to this time they have been multiplying in numbers, but there are indications that the public is soon to register a protest that will go far to abolition of these eyesores and vision breakers.

The roadside signboard has a certain advertising value and the public neither envies the advertiser for his profit from it nor does it desire to deprive the advertiser of any business advantage, but the highways are primarily for the benefit and pleasure of the people and the advertising sign detracts from those benefits and pleasures.

Motorists find the poster-board obnoxious for the three reasons that it mars the landscape, obstructs the view of the scenery and creates a traffic hazard by interference with the vision of the driver. All are sufficiently valid reasons why the advertising sign should be prohibited along main highways.

In the early days of the automobile the roadside poster-board was limited to circus posters on barn broadsides and motorists never dreamed of them as a future problem of highway administration. Public opinion then could not have been molded against the signboard. Today it is molding itself and may strike anytime.

When the advertiser finds that his signboards are distasteful to the public he will not wait, if he is wise, until the passage of legislation before he removes them.

IT IS FALL

Lodges are getting their winter's activities under way. Young folks are wooing Terpischore again. There is a smell of camphor in many homes as mah jongg sets are being opened up. New loud speakers are being installed for the radio. Study circles are resuming. There is hot competition around the reading lamp for possession of the home town paper. Bridge is still played. There is some demand for cornpoppers. The ice man looks a little glum but the electric light meter reader wears a smile like a split watermelon as he sets down the figures.

It has been a wonderfully fine summer with more than usual opportunities for outdoor enjoyments, because of the unbroken sunshine which continuel for so long. But it will be fine to have the fall rains, too, and later the nip of frost and the sheen of snow. Just as one of the fine things about going away from home is to come back there so one of the fine things about a prolonged summer is that finally we come to its end and to normal change. Seasons lend variety and prevent monotony. And each of them in Circleville is enjoyable.

Before the advent of the modern clock, many towns and cities told the time to their people by firing a gun at noon. Rome was such a place, and kept to the daily firing of her veteran noon-gun on the Janiculum hill, which had been done so far back as human memory could go until a year or so ago.

Then she decided to replace this ancient form of time signaling by the most ultramodern system available. A master electric clock was installed in the city observatory, which controlled 300 other electric clocks placed in different quarters of the Eternal city on the Tiber. The 538,000 Romans are therefore exceptionally well catered for as regards the time.

What an amazing contrast is such a method as this to the manner in which parts of Egypt to this very day tell the time. There some of the natives still employ ancient shadow clocks. These consist of wooden boards with little "goal posts" in the middle of them, which measure by the shadows they throw the length of jobs which have to be performed by oxen or laborers.

These "clocks" have been in use for telling time for 4,000 years.

Eye Strain Responsible for Much Bad Temper

Physical exhaustion entirely disproportionate to the amount of energy expended is often caused by eye strain, said Dr. B. Franklin Royer, medical director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. In many cases, Doctor Royer said, loss of temper could be traced to defective vision.

"Some of us are fooling ourselves when we do not connect serious bodily fatigue and irritability toward the end of the day, and still greater fatigue and irritability toward the end of the week, with the eye that has actually shown no pain during all that period. Many a worker having just such daily and weekly manifestations of increasing fatigue may have his symptoms disappear by wisely applying present-day medical knowledge of the cause, have the fault corrected, and still keep the same job and the same kind of work, with the fatigue and discomfort rapidly disappearing."

Forged Art on Show

Some of the specimens of forged pieces of "ancient art" are so clever that they are of marvelous interest, although they are known to be spurious. The characteristics of old stone carvings, for instance, have been so minutely reproduced that it is often difficult to detect the fraud. As a matter of fact, there is hardly a museum in the world which, at some time, has not had one of these "fakes" in its collection. Ultimately, however, the imposition is revealed and the offending piece removed. The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York has a special department devoted to these forged antiques and they are regarded by experts as quite as interesting as the genuine, but in a different way.

Napoleon's "Pick-Me-Up"

Napoleon, in addition to other trifling feats, was the inventor of the cocktail. Although the most frugal of eaters and drinkers, allowing only eight minutes to lunch and 12 to dinner, he was assisted, it seems, in his "miracles of endurance and activity," by "a mixture of different alcoholic spirits, of which he himself controlled the dosage." So testify Bourienne, Fouche and the valet Constant Wainj, who served him from 1801 till 1814; while Marchand, who succeeded Wainj and accompanied his master to St. Helena, left among his papers the recipe of the ex-emperor's favorite pick-me-up.

Snake With Ears

Another story of a snake with ears comes from the Bushveld. Mr. S. Voges writes to say that he read the report in the Johannesburg Sunday Times of a "snake with ears" being seen in a vlei at Rooiberg, and, he adds, that he believes this tale to be true. "My mother often tells us how, when she was a child, a snake which was found to have two ears was killed in a fig tree," he writes. "As the snake was so strange, the neighbors were called to see it, so that people round about could come and see it as well. I can assure you that this story is true."

The lower half of the boundary between Manitoba and Saskatchewan is stepped because, crossing a well-settled farming district, it follows the survey lines. Survey lines in northwestern Canada are, of course, always stepped, this being necessary in view of the fact that the meridians of longitude, which form the basis of the surveyors' calculations, converge as they go north, and the distance between them, instead of remaining uniform, is thus gradually narrowing, whereas survey lines have to be kept straight.

Gripping, awful mystery—eerie footsteps in the dead of night—an unseen hand spreading terror and destruction—a beautiful girl hypnotized to work the will of a cruel maniac—and love dominating, controlling, triumphing in the mystic maze of a revengeful career.

"The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu" is one of the greatest mystery stories ever written and it is one of the greatest moving pictures ever made. In dialog and swift action, the strange, crafty villain, who thrilled millions in Sax Rohmer's books, comes to life, spreads out before us on the screen, inspires us with a nameless terror, spurs us on to his capture and leaves us with a thankful feeling of relief when, captured at last, he clears the way for true love.

NOVARRO'S VOICE CHARMS

Ramon Novarro's voice, destined for Grand Opera, in which he is scheduled to make his debut in Berlin this summer, charmed natives in the South Seas, while the star was in the tropics to film his latest starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "The Pagan," a vivid drama which comes to the Cliftona theater Wednesday as a sound synchronized film with singing sequences.

On his arrival, Novarro, W. S. Van Dyke, the director, Renee Adoree and the rest of the cast, were guests of honor at a native feast. In return, Novarro, as a courtesy, sang several opera aires and some Mexican folksongs for the delightful natives.

The new picture is based on John Russell's vivid novel of the South Seas. Novarro plays a young island chief, torn between the loves of a white charmer, played by Miss Adoree, and a native girl, a role entrusted to Dorothy Janis. Donald Crisp plays the "heavy" role, a cruel itinerant white trader, who tries to separate Novarro and his native sweetheart.

Novarro gives several renditions of "Pagen Love Song," the theme song of the production, being the first time his voice has been heard on the vocal screen.

BLACKMAILING PLOT

Lina Basquette and Reed Howes are starred at the Grand theater Wednesday and Thursday in a talking picture, "Come Across," the sentational drama of a beautiful society girl who lived through the depths of the underworld and the machinations of a gigantic blackmailing plot to reach the heights of true romance. A Vitaphone act and news reel are also on the program.

Will Entertain Premier

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, first lady of the land, will entertain Premier Ramsay MacDonald and his daughter during their visit in Washington. Since news of the British statesman's trip to this country has been confirmed, Washington society is fearful that the question of seating will again come up as it is probable that Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis will demand that she outrank Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the British Ambassador, who will be hostess to the MacDonalds.

Marvelous Number of Nerve Cells in Brain

The piece of machinery which operates more like the brain than any other is the automatic telephone. The televox is more spectacular, but its work is limited. In the operation of the automatic telephone the selection is made in the same way—by a series of number signals rung, in succession, by a small contact point behind the telephone dial as it turns. But instead of the hundred separate signal combinations that the televox can understand, the telephone system has place for nearly ten billion.

Yet even this vast sum the human brain exceeds. The number of living nerve cells in the surface gray matter of the brain is more than 9,000,000,000. If it be assumed that these can be connected to one another in the same fashion as telephone subscribers are—a procession that experts agree is probably something like what happens during thinking—the number of possible interconnections would be about 00,000,000,000,000,000,000.

Really Is Woodchuck

Ground hog is a term applied in the southern part of the United States to the marmot, better named woodchuck. It is 15 to 18 inches long. The color is blackish or grizzled above, chestnut-red below; the form thick, the head broad and flat, the legs short and thick, the tail bushy. The hair is rather soft, but the whiskers are long and stout.

Thousand Kinds of Cheeses

The man who can name a dozen kinds of cheeses would be inclined to regard himself as a connoisseur, but the fact is that he would know hardly anything about the subject. There are more than 1,000 kinds of cheeses, each distinct in appearance and flavor, being made and eaten over the world, according to the Farm Journal.

The natives of Tibet, in southern Asia, lay the bad conditions and the loss of their teeth to the cold and extremely sharp winds of their high mountain land. This idea seems to have some basis in fact. But instead of the hundred separate signal combinations that the televox can understand, the telephone system has place for nearly ten billion.

Yet even this vast sum the human brain exceeds. The number of living nerve cells in the surface gray matter of the brain is more than 9,000,000,000. If it be assumed that these can be connected to one another in the same fashion as telephone subscribers are—a procession that experts agree is probably something like what happens during thinking—the number of possible interconnections would be about 90,000,000,000,000,000,000,000.

Really Is Woodchuck

Ground hog is a term applied in the southern part of the United States to the marmot, better named woodchuck. It is 15 to 18 inches long. The color is blackish or grizzled above, chestnut-red below; the form thick, the head broad and flat, the legs short and thick, the tail bushy. The hair is rather soft, but the whiskers are long and stout.

Inclement Tibet

The natives of Tibet, in southern Asia, lay the bad condition and the loss of their teeth to the cold and extremely sharp winds of their high mountain land. This idea seems to have some basis in fact. A traveler named Saunders, who visited the country in the interests of science, testifies that the Tibetan blasts peeled off almost all the skin of his and his comrade's faces.

The FOOD WASTED in many homes WOULD BUY THIS GENERAL ELECTRIC

That pint of milk which you wouldn't think of giving the children, the half-bottle of cream that's ever so faintly sour, the bowl of applesauce that doesn't smell quite sweet, the soup stock, the end of a leg of lamb . . . the countless left-overs that would make perfectly good dishes if you could only be sure they were safely fresh.

You can be sure. A General Electric Refrigerator will quietly and automatically maintain a temperature safely below 50 degrees. Left-overs will always be healthfully fresh . . . you'll have a generous supply of ice cubes whenever you want them . . . your current bills will be surprisingly low.

Keep track of the food you have to throw away for one week, multiply that figure by four . . . and then compare your result with the moderate monthly payment which will give you the perfect, health-guarding refrigeration which a General Electric assures. Remember that this is the only refrigerator which has an all-steel cabinet and an hermetically sealed mechanism. Come in today and get the whole story.
